The Orestes Chavez Cuban Baseball Collection

Then and Now...Collecting since 1968

In September 1999 Sotheby, the famous auction house hosted the Barry Halper Collection auction. In the first few lines of their introduction they described Mr. Halper in the following way, "If baseball players threw it, caught it, wore it, signed it or posed with it, Barry Halper collected it."

This is the exact approach that Orestes Chavez has taken. With his determination and commitment, Orestes has assembled the world's largest and most significant private collection on Cuban Baseball.

Orestes was collecting Cuban baseball memorabilia when it was unheard of. As a young boy at the age of five he began to collect baseball cards. Even then his love and respect for history were apparent. He saved the cards for years and in the early 80's he began actively collecting baseball memorabilia in a unique way. While everyone else joined in on the collecting frenzy via memorabilia establishments, Orestes ventured out and began to visit the forgotten ball players that had played in the Cuban Professional League (Cubans and Americans) obtaining rare items, autographs, and always the story behind the player. His experiences are so unique and interesting that only a book filled with accounts of each visit would describe his amazing journey into the past. His experiences include drives from Miami to Tampa with former player, Angel Scull to visit the great Almendares pitcher, Agapito Mayor, Al Lopez, Max Lanier and Bert Haas. Other memorable visits include a lunch engagement with Ted Williams at his home with former Major Leaguer Paul Casanova. His list continues. Orestes has obtained not only precious memorabilia, but also unforgettable stories to tell for years. The journey has been worth the time and effort. Orestes hopes to share his collection with the world so that this important piece of history is never forgotten!

Historical Perspective

The significance of this collection is not only limited to baseball. The pre-revolution uniforms tell the story of the greatness of the Cuban nation when it was free. The uniform tags of the American companies like Rawlings, and Wilson show the economic stability of Cuban in the late 50's as well as the friendship that existed between Cuba and the United States. Some uniform labels such as Tarin Sport, Solymar, Montero Sport and Casa Vassallo are small examples of the great sport stores that were in existence in a free Cuba. The pennants, souvenir caps and other memorabilia show how far ahead of its time Cuba was when it came to marketing. Embracing baseball history globally, Orestes followed all of the Cuban players that made the transition into the Major Leagues. From Manuel Cueto to Vladimir Nunez, Orestes followed their careers and obtained whatever rare items still exist from then and now.

The Collection

This collection contains a wide variety of memorabilia that includes uniforms, jerseys, balls, bats, documents, photographs, ceramics, and just about any other collectable item that is related to Cuban baseball players.

Photo Collection

- Team Pictures-190 Team Pictures. Approximately 130 are 8 x 10's. You will find anything from "Cromo" in the early 1930's to a very RARE Almendares from the late 1800's. And of course all the Cuban professional teams are represented.
- Havana Cubans /Sugar Kings Photos- These are 12 mutli-player original pictures. We then have 90 more 8 x 10's made from the original negative! The quality is unreal. These include some of the Dodgers pictured in Cuba during spring training.
- Alerta Collection- These were 8 1/2 x 10 1/2 pictures of players from the four different professional teams used by Antonio Prio to advertise himself while running for mayor of Havana. Total of 64 different players.
- Baseball Caricatures- These were hand made by Enrique Tamarit Garcia during the 1950-51 season. Each describes each game with in depth information as to stats and standouts in each game. The artwork is plain beautiful! A total of 25.
- In Action Photos- 100 original "In-Action Shots" or "Muti-Player" shots. All Originals. Then add another 30 more made from the original negative!
- Salvador Hernandez Collection- Here we have 12 original documents that belonged to long time player /manager Salvador Hernandez. All deal with baseball and most still have the original envelope in which it was mail in! These are from the 30's and 40's and signed by attorneys and minor league team owners!
- Single Player Photo Collection- This section contains players photographed alone in the picture. Approximately 50 of these are 5 x 7 and the other 60 or so are 8 x 10's. We go back here to the early 20's to the 60's.
- Juvenile section- In this section you can find anything from Havana Military Academy to Belen. There are 60 of these pictures and then add another 170 of 5 x 7 of the Amateur league of single players all originals!! And if that doesn't satisfy your thirst how about another 25 photos dealing with softball including Cuba's funny man and baseball lover Garrido!
- Fausto Miranda Photo Collection- In this section you have 15 different photos of a young Fausto and then as an older man. He is pictured with athletes and receiving various awards.
